

wdt:P57 — the truthy shortcut, bypassing the statement node

The shortcut is always syntactically available. A model that does not know when a richer construct is required produces a valid query that answers a different question.